been fair to both the dealer and the public. Within the past three months, it has been possible to effect still further economies. Today, the discount or commission of the Ford dealer is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

THE business of the Ford dealer is good because he makes a small profit on a large number of sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales. He knows, too, that the extra dollar-for-dollar value of the car makes it easier to sell and more certain to give satisfactory service after purchase.

Consider also that the Ford car is delivered to the purchaser equipped with a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, an extra steel-spoke wheel, and bright, enduring Rustless Steel for many exterior metal parts, in addition to four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes.

If for any reason you wish to buy certain small accessories, you will find that these, too, are sold at the usual Ford low prices. Replacement parts are also available at low prices through Ford dealers in every section of the country.

THESE are important points to remember in considering the purchase of a motor car. They show why it is possible to put so much extra quality into the new Ford and still maintain the low price. They are also the reasons why more than 35% of all cars sold today are Model A Fords.

Tamarack Talk

My favorite Lincoln poem is by Vachel Lindsay and is one of the finest and most beautiful tributes ever paid to the "prairie lawyer, master of us all."

Abraham Lincoln Walks at Midnight
(In Springfield, Illinois)
It is portents and a thing of state
That here at midnight, in our little town
A mortal giant waltzes and will not rest.
Over the old court-house pacing up and down,
Or by his homestead, or in shadowed yards
He lingers where his children used to play,
Or through the market, on the well-worn stones
He stalks until the dawn-stars burn away.

A bronzed, lank man! His suit of ancient black,
A famous high-top hat and phin worn shawl,
Take him the quaint great figure that men love,
The prairie-lawyer, master of us all.
He cannot sleep upon his hillside now,
He is among us—yes in times before
And we who toss and lie awake for long Breathe deep, and start, to see him pass the door.
His head is bowed, he thinks on men and kings,
Yes, when the sick world cries, how can he sleep?

To many peasants fight, they know not why,
Too many homesteads in black terror weep.
The star of all that hush and hush the heart,
He sees the dream-figures scurrying every main,
He carries on his shawl-wrapped shoulders now
The burden of the world, the burden of the pain.

He cannot rest until a spirit-land Shall come—the shining hope of Europe free:
The looser soldier of the Workers' Earth,
Bringing long peace to Cornland, Alp and Sea.
That all his hours of travail here for men
Seem vain and vain, and who will bring white
That he may sleep upon his hill again!

Vachel Lindsay, poet, herald, visionary and reformer, in this poem gives us a most profound and appealing and universal eulogy of Lincoln, and it is one of Lindsay's best poems.

"Spoon River Anthology" has written a beautiful poem on Ann Rutledge, who so deeply influenced and held the soul of Lincoln.

Out of me unworried and unknown
The vibrations of deathless music
"With molten words and with electricity for all"
Out of me the forgiveness of millions toward millions.

And the beneficent face of a nation
Shining with justice and truth,
I am Ann Rutledge who sleep beneath these woods.

Beloved in life of Abraham Lincoln,
Wedded to him, not through union,
But through separation,
Blessed forever, O Republic,
From the dust of thy bosom!

Lincoln himself had a truly poetic nature, his thoughts had a background of poetry and he spoke in words that were in themselves poetry for their simplicity.
And even as a boy who told that he wrote verses upon a wooden board for a slate.

In his plain, forceful language, Lincoln once spoke those words that seem so appropriate at this time when the question of law enforcement and law obedience is uppermost in our minds. He said: "Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lapping babe that prattles on her lap; let it be taught in schools, in seminaries, in colleges; let it be written in primers, spelling books, and Almanacs; let it be preached from the pulpits, proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice. And in short, let it become the political religion of the Nation."

For the youth of today is this thought, —that it is a fine thing for America to make a man great, but finer still for a man to give America greatness.

This is brought out in a poem "Lincoln's Birthday" by Richard Le Gallie, in the third stanza:
None knew whence Lincoln that deep wisdom drew,
So shrewd, so tender; not from books it came,
Nor from a mother's breast, nor taught he knew
A father's ethic, the old that had the flame
Of his great soul his hidden hand did pour:
Lincoln was born—no man could move him more.
Nor shall America his greatness claim,
He gave her greatness from the heart of him.

Bliss Carman in his poem "The Man of Peace," written for Collier's Magazine, on the hundredth anniversary of Lincoln's birthday makes a universal appeal for a lasting memorial to Lincoln, in the last of the eight verses of the poem:
O South, bring all your chivalry;
And West, give all your heart;
And East, your old-world dreams
Of progress and of art!
Bid waste and war be no more,
Bid wanton riot cease;
At your command let Lincoln's land
To Paradise—be peace.

DON'T NEGLECT A COUGH

A neglected cough can lead to a lot of trouble. But if you use Adamson's Balsam the first thing—there's no danger.

The first dose relaxes strained throat muscles, breaks up, and expels phlegm and heals irritated membrane. That stops the coughing. Other ingredients, acting through the blood attack the germs at seat of trouble and in a day or two all danger is gone. Adamson's Balsam contains no drugs or anything harmful. 50c and $1. At all drug stores.

A safe, pleasant cough and sore throat medicine for children. Get a bottle today.
